Jamie,

I assume this is the most recent; this does not include any data in the last few weeks. Just wanted to make sure.

Thanks

Attached are a couple of tables containing organics detections as well as inorganic ions (chloride) detections for sampling period 2/12-03/02 (that includes all detections since the last set of tables I sent you). I know your call is at 2 so I wanted to get these over to you quickly-I haven't had a chance to compare them to the last round of sampling or have them reviewed by anyone else. Would you like me to try to do that comparison for you?

Great – I have a call at 2 and that would help if you're able to look at that soon. I am interested in the Chloride numbers also. We're watching the conditions change over the last couple weeks with high water run-off and now dropping again, and the associated changes to concentrations in both GW and SW. One thing that may occur with this flush is the residual oil layer in the alluvium is it may mobilize some oil again.

Thanks,
Steve

Jamie,

Would you or John, if you have time today, pull any recent data posted: groundwater and surface water. Please look it over to see if there any organic (BTX or other) data included.

Could you forward that to me if you pull it.

Thank you,
Steve
